IDENTIFYING ODORS of an area generally pinpoint agricultural or industrial activities.

In most cases, residents become accustomed to the smells of their particular area, although they may not be overly fond of them.

One example that comes to mind of an odor which has few critics would be in a citrus belt when the orange trees are blossoming.

The smell of orange blossoms is not present in Campbell. Still this area does have its own distinctive odor at times.

When the Sunsweet plant is operating, for example, and the wind is right, almost every section of the community gets a whiff of cooking fruit.

But there is another odor also that for a long time had us puzzled.

It generally is prevelant in the early morning hours. But not being a regular early riser, we can't report how frequently the smell of onions wafts through the ozone.

But there are times when it gets pretty heavy.

We are aware that this is not an onion-growing country, so for a time we were quite concerned about our own individual smeller.

But when others agreed that it really was onions we were smelling, we concluded that we must be indebted to Gilroy and the prevailing winds for this delicacy.

It really wouldn't be fair to identify Campbell with that particular odor. Let Gilroy have it, we say.

We'll take Sunsweet, until something better comes along.

SOME IDEA of how far the City of Campbell has expanded on the personnel front was gained at a recent council meeting when City Manager Bob Stephens was introducing the city's two newest employees, Kenneth Hickman, street superintendent, and Geoffrey Whitaker, accounting-budget officer.

Bob took the two guys in tow and made the rounds of the councilmen and the press table before the meeting introducing the two new staff members.

The introductions were well under way when it was discovered that the two new city employees hadn't yet met each other.

Bob took care of this oversight immediately. Ken and Jeff shook hands and the introductions then continued.

OUR CURIOSITY was aroused recently when we were sailing by on Campbell Ave. and noticed a guy peering into the windows of our joint on Dillon Ave.

We swung by, of course.

It turned out that the well-dressed guy was

City planners continue hearing on drive-in theater until September 7

Whether a drive-in theater will be approved on the Brynteson Ranch at Campbell and Bascom avenues will not be decided until the next meeting of the Planning Commission on Tuesday, September 7.

A visibly disappointed, emotionally-drained and physically tired overflow crowd learned that fact at 1 a.m. Tuesday after waiting for more than four hours for the controversial auto-movie issue to come to bat.

The commission made its ruling to continue the hearing on the theater after listening for more than an hour to a parade of wrought-up residents who blasted the idea of a theater from every angle, including traffic, noise and moral ones.

PETITION

Their arguments were bolstered by a petition signed by approximately 700 residents which was presented by David Finch, local attorney, who represented a group of home-owners in the area.

The public hearing Monday was on the use permit application filed by Eric Hallbeck, of the Bank of America, as agents representing the Brynteson estate.

The 28-acre parcel, now planted to an orchard, is zoned C-2-S (heavy commercial). A drive-in theater is permissable for this zoning subject to approval of a use permit by the Planning Commission.

The application for the use permit specified that United California Theatre, owner and operator of similar facilities in the county, desired to build a drive-in theater on about 14 acres of the property and planned eventually to develop the remainder of the property commercially.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE--Mrs. Evelyn Adamson, employed by the City of Campbell since April, 1954, has been granted a year's leave of absence from her duties at the city hall by City Manager Bob Stephens. Mrs. Adamson, who fills the key position of administrative assistant-planning in the planning department, requested the leave because of illness in her immediate family. The leave of absence begins on October 1, 1965.

Council meets Monday

Tax rate, shopping center feature top-heavy agenda

Setting the City tax rate and adopting the final budget for the fiscal year plus the holding of a public hearing on plans for a proposed shopping center at Hacienda and San Tomas will highlight the City Council meeting next Monday night, August 23.

In addition, a number of other items, including a progress report on the proposed off-street parking district for downtown Campbell and a report on the hearing held by the State Highway Division on the possible closing of White Oaks will probably make the council's agenda next Monday one of the heaviest in months.

TAX BASE

City Manager Bob Stephens reported this week that the assessed valuation for the city shows a 6.9% increase over last year. Councilmen have indicated previously that they plan to hold the line on taxes which will mean that the $1 for general fund and 27-cents for bonds will then be adopted Monday.

The assessed valuation this year is $38,690,400 compared to $36,192,410 the previous year. Stephens estimates that the property tax will bring in $483,889 during the next fiscal year. Last year the property tax income was $451,443.

PARKING

At the council meeting Monday, a representative of Creegan and D'Aneglo, engineers working on the project, is expected to make a progress report on the off-street parking district for the downtown area.

It is estimated that the total cost for the Roosevelt Redwood turns into bench for city park

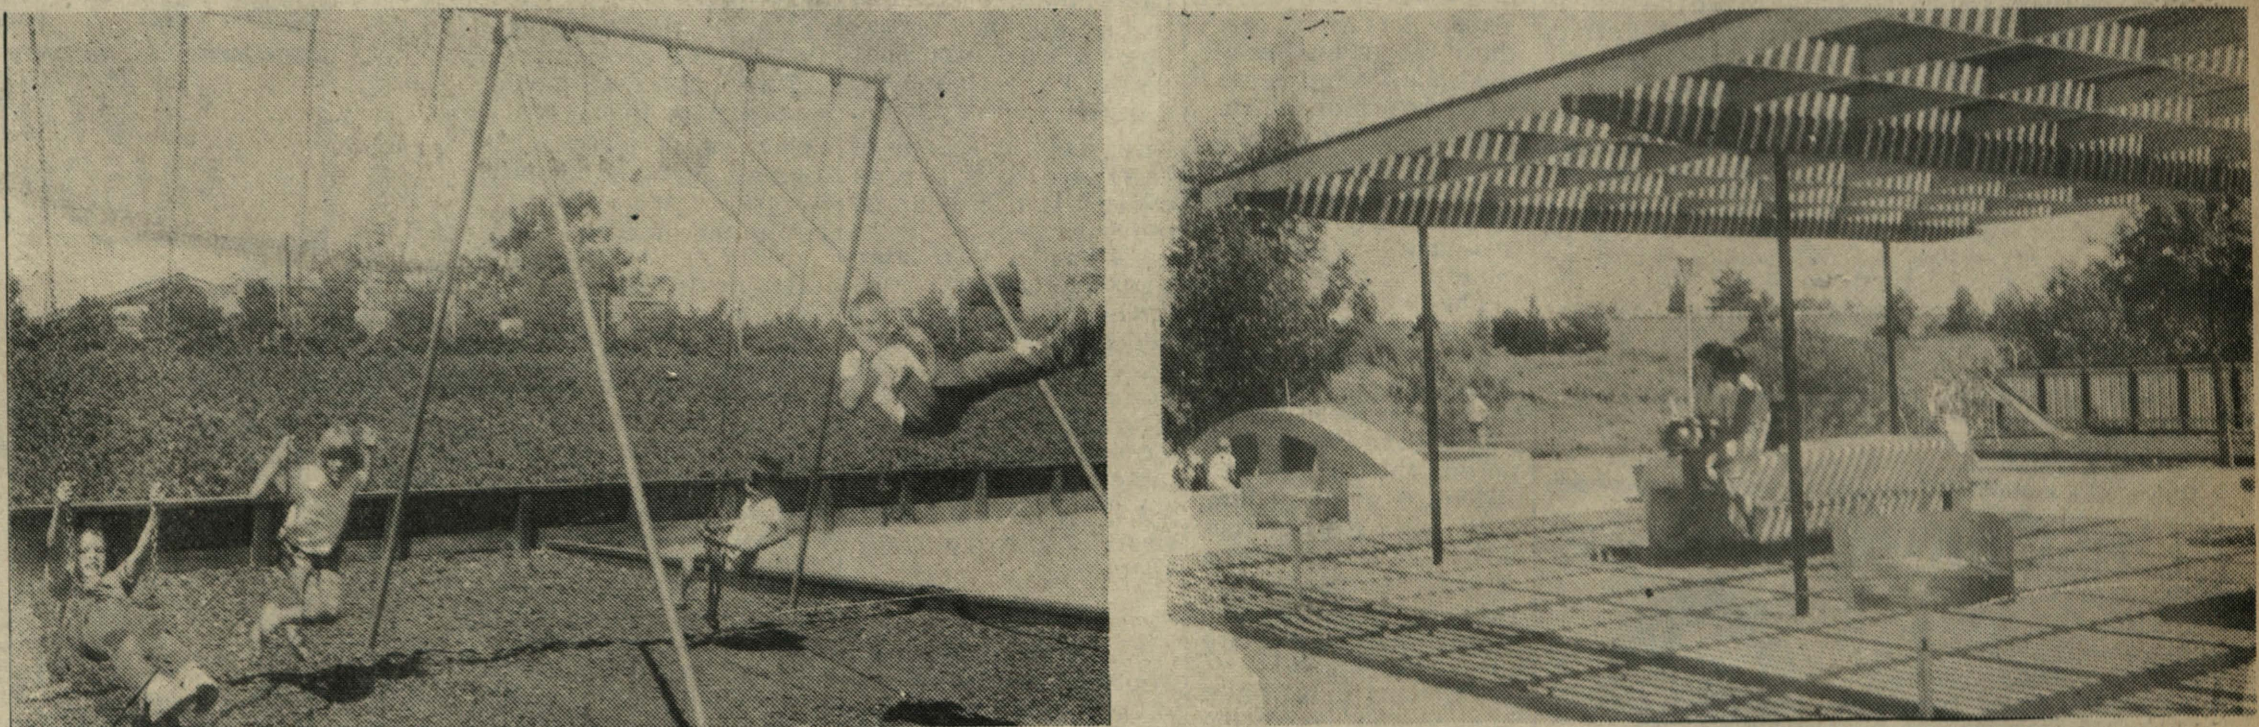
"A chip off the old block"

FINISHING TOUCHES--LeRoy (Blackie) Black, city park superintendent, in top photo applies a paint brush to the park bench that was made from the Roosevelt Redwood that stood so many years at the corner of Winchester and Campbell. The redwood was planted by President Theodore Roosevelt in the early 1900's but the improvement of the intersection forced the tree's removal.

By City Council order, a bench was constructed from the trunk of the tree and will be placed on the city property under the two walnut trees at Harrison and Campbell avenues.

A plaque will be placed on the bench describing the historical event when the president of the United States visited Campbell and planted the tree shortly after the turn of the century. City plans call for landscaping the area by the two walnut trees. Additional landscaping for the site by the Jaycees in conjunction with city personnel has been approved by the City Council.



POPULAR AREA--Campbell's city park at Campbell and Gilman avenues at Los Gatos Creek has attracted an increasing number of visitors during the summer months with the completion of Phase II of the improvement program.

On the left, above, is a typical shot of the playground equipment area where the swings are going almost continually during the daylight hours. On the right, above, is a shelter area where several barbecue tables are located. The roof allows the sunlight to be filtered.

In the foreground is one of the six barbecue stands that recently have been installed. In the background are more playground facilities. Plans call for improvement of more of the present undeveloped area and the acquisition of additional property to allow for parking of vehicles.

Picnic tables are also placed throughout the park located near the barbecue stands. Six attractive trash containers made of exposed aggregate have also been placed in the picnic areas.

Editorial

Coming close

The request for approval of a use permit to put a drive-in theater on the Brynteson Ranch at Campbell and Bascom avenues has created a tremendous amount of interest among the residents of the community.

Although the application for the use permit was filed with the Planning Commission and that body, therefore, has to take the first official city action, the fact remains that the city councilmen were well aware that the application was filed.

It was a matter of public record and the legal notice of the public hearing had been published in this newspaper several weeks ago.

Quite naturally the individual city council members were concerned over the proposed development. They would not be doing their jobs properly, if they had not shown some interest in that public hearing and what the attitude of the Planning Commission would be.

That, then, brings up the complex question of proper procedure.

At a council meeting before the public hearing, the councilmen discussed the proposal. They poured over the plans and it was apparent that individually they had some strong opinions on the matter.

But officially they could not act because the matter was not before them. But they came close to it. Too close.

While we are well aware that the councilmen have every right to their individual opinions, they also should be able to express them. But it is a question of time and place.

Expressing their opinions on a matter that was not officially before the council and had not yet even come before the Planning Commission could be subject to criticism.

Fortunately no official action on the issue was taken by the council. A motion was made but later withdrawn after a 2-2 deadlock vote to restudy the property in question with an eye toward rezoning it. Had this motion been approved, there is a possibility that it might have been construed as pre-judging the matter on the part of the council.

In making the motion, however, Councilman Bob McElroy emphasized that a similar request for a study of the property had been made some months previously and it was not necessarily based on the present situation.

But it was a pretty fine line of distinction. The deadlock and the subsequent withdrawal of the motion probably saved a great deal of fussing and fuming.

We sympathize most emphatically with the position of the councilmen.

As interested citizens of their community they have every right to express their opinions on matters affecting their city.

But when they are cloaked with the mantle of councilmen their position no longer can be classified as "private citizens". They are then speaking as administrators of the local government. Their words then take on a much different meaning.

We are firmly convinced that their actions at that city council meeting can not be construed as "official" or that the councilmen "prejudged" an issue.

But we also must admit that they came closer to it than was probably wise.

Who pays for it ?

An interesting point arises periodically when crossing guards and other traffic safety devices are discussed for school areas.

While everyone is in agreement that every means should be taken to protect the youngsters to and from school, there is an area of disagreement over what agency should pick up the tab for the safety measures.

For schools located within the city limits, the city pays the costs of the adult crossing guards. The city also generally pays for other traffic safeguards such as overhead cross-walks or push-button traffic signal controls.

There have been instances with school districts contributing. But basically it is the city that pays.

Locally the situation at Rosemary School on Hamilton Ave. is a case in point. Increased traffic on Hamilton will also increase the traffic hazards for the youngsters. The school district would like to see an overhead crosswalk installed. Probably the city would too. But the question of who pays for it is a bothersome one.

The city engineer has indicated that he does not think that the traffic as yet will warrant such an elaborate traffic safeguard. He has suggested a push-button traffic signal to supplement the crossing guards. Such an installation will cost about $4500.

Again the question has arisen about the joint responsibility. The city would like the school district to help defray the costs.

It will be interesting to see what develops.

deaf and dumb and was apparently looking for someone who might have worked for The Press at one time.

At least, that's what we gathered from the note he handed us.

But we think the guy was a little confused between the name of the street and the man he was looking for.

"Are you Mr. Dillon?" was the first question he handed us.

We shook our head.

"Does Mr. Dillon work here or do you know where he is?"

Again a negative response on our part. So our peering friend got in his car and left.

To the best of our knowledge, there has never been a "Mr. Dillon" (shades of the Matt of TV fame) who has ever worked at The Press.

Although there have been many people who have been on and off the payroll at The Press, we think that name "Dillon" would have been remembered.

The coincidence of the street name alone would have been enough. But because of TV, he would have been known as "marshal" or "Matt" which would have emphasized it that much more.

But we wish the guy hadn't left right away.

Now we will never know whom he wanted.

"Mr. Dillon" where are you?

THAT CONTROVERSIAL (and perennial) issue of whether there should be a new shopping center at San Tomas Road and Hacienda again takes the floor at the City Council meeting next Monday, August 23.

We expect, as has been the case in the past, the show will again draw a standing-room-only crowd composed of many of the same persons who have faithfully followed the performances of the past.

Here's the review:

Aligned on one side will be members of the Turturici family, owners of Big Boy Market on Hacienda with their counsel et al. This group has reiterated time and time again during the past years they plan to build a shopping center just a hop-skip-and-a-jump from the one planned by Topaz builders on San Tomas and Hacienda. They claim the new center would be economically unsound. They form the opposition.

On the other side will be representatives of Topaz Builders, with their counsel et al, plus many interested residents of the immediate area who heartily and vociferously have indicated they favor the San Tomas site for a center.

The two groups en masse attended the last council meeting when the council continued the hearing until August 23. Before the council acted, the room was filled. A great exodus took place after that action. There were only three people left in the audience for the remainder of the meeting.

This particular show surely must be setting a new city hall box-office record.

RIFLEMEN

Planning Commission puts in busy night

It was a busy night.

By midnight Monday when the Planning Commission opened the public hearing on the controversial drive-in theater, the planners had already waded through four hours of involved city matters.

During those four hours, the planners had rejected two signs, and approved one; denied two zoning changes; approved a use permit and plans for a restaurant; granted a rear yard variance; continued two issues affecting service station controls; approved plans for an industrial building.

Even after 1 a.m. when they had decided to continue drive-in theater issue, the weary planners, now almost alone in the council chambers, discussed two proposed text amendments, one regarding parking and loading requirements and the other on yard requirements.

SIGNS

The commission approved the sign for Richard Salice of the "Winchester Medical Center" on an existing pole at 2075 Winchester Blvd. They denied, however, the request of J. F. Dolegal, of Kirkwood Drugs in the Kirkwood Plaza for a rotating roof sign, despite the personal appeal of Dolegal and Ira Kirkorian, developer of the center, that the sign requested was attractive and would blend in with the architectural style.

They also turned thumbs down on the request of William C. Head, of Martin Oil Services who wanted signs painted on the fence around the service station planned at 851 E. Hamilton.

RESTAURANT

The planners approved a use permit and the plans for a restaurant submitted by Gordon C. Fischer on the southeast corner of Sunnyoaks and Dell avenues. They also okayed the plans for a storage building at 879 McGlincy Lane submitted by Wilburdon Construction Co.

ZONE CHANGE

Two zone change requests on Winchester Blvd. went down the drain for basically the same reasons and by the same vote (5-1), although the negative ballot was cast by a different commissioner in each case.

One request was of Ernest Gong-Guy for three lots on Winchester Blvd. next to the high school property. The applicant had indicated previously that a drive-in restaurant was planned for the location.

The commission is in the midst of suggesting controls for such businesses but it was pointed out that should the zone change be approved, a drive-in could be put there before the new ordinance as effective.

The applicant had asked for a C-2-S (heavy commercial) from the present R-1-S status. By a 5-1 vote the commission (Frank Klein dissenting) denied the zone change on the basis that lots were too shallow for heavy commercial.

The same reason was used for denial of the zone change request of Ken Norton, operator of a service station on Winchester Blvd. who wanted C-2-S zoning on property at Winchester and Alice where he desired to establish a used car sales business.

VARIANCE

A rear yard variance was approved for Robert E. Brundin at 1120 Fairland Court who plans to add two bedrooms to his house.

GAS STATIONS

The issue of controls for gas station and other outdoor business activity which the planners had been working on for months was continued until September 7 to allow opponents of the proposed controls to see if the controversial points in the proposals could be smoothed out.

Before continuing the hearing on the proposals, commission members reviewed some of the points of difference and discussed suggested modifications.

Dick Hogan, planning director, presented an amendment that would protect present service stations which would be non-conforming under the new controls. Suggested changes on the location of stations were also discussed. The proposals call for stations to be located only at intersections of two streets of four moving lanes or in shopping centers. Some commissioners indicated that they thought this was too rigid. A change in the shopping center definition was also suggested.

Drive-in battle rages

the theater would be off Campbell Ave. opposite Union Ave. A 85-foot screen would be located in the northwest corner of the parcel nearest the freeway.

FOR DRIVE-IN

Leo Ruth, of the engineering firm of Ruth, Going and Beck, represented the applicants at the hearing. He was assisted in his presentation by Desmond Johnson, real estate developer, and George K. Raad, architect for United California Theatre.

They argued that the proposed development would provide the best financial return to Campbell and that the 28-acre parcel had to be sold in one piece, which would eliminate piece-meal developments.

They maintained that United California Theatre was financially able to develop the property and the property was too small for a regional center and too large for a neighborhood type.

Ruth, who spoke first, good-naturedly recognized that the audience was a hostile one. He cited The Campbell Press for doing a good job of bringing the issue to the public's attention through the news story and map that was published last week. He was sorry, he added, that their side had not had an opportunity to present its case in the newspaper.

After the drive-in proponents had their say, the opponents took the floor.

AT MIDNIGHT

Although it was after midnight when the residents began their pitch, the late hour did not seem to affect the enthusiasm of the crowd that had waited for four hours to be heard.

Each speaker, after striking a blow against the drive-in, was applauded and cheered by the audience. This led Chairman Thayer Lyons to comment that perhaps the crowd was not the largest at the hearing but it certainly was the noisiest.

The Campbell Press was commended repeatedly for calling attention to the issue. When Commissioner Homer Hyde asked one party how they managed to get so many signatures and what they used to explain the question to the people, she held up a copy of last week's Press which had the map on the front page.

"That's the same picture that's on the wall," the woman added.

Speaker after speaker told of the problems created by drive-ins and vehemently maintained that the location was poor for such a venture in every respect.

APARTMENT

John Thompson, representing the owner of the Aloha Apartments on Bascom, adjacent to the proposed operation, said that 90 of the apartment dwellers had signed the petition against the drive-in. He added that almost every apartment in the building would be affected by the lights and noise.

Leonard Gordon, owner of an apartment on Union Ave. said that all 50 of his tenants were ready to sign a petition and he maintained that the traffic at Union which was bad now would be chaotic if the drive-in was allowed.

Another speaker, Al Tafoya, of 1341 E. Campbell, cited examples of problems of residents who lived near Winchester Drive-In. Tafoya said that he personally had garnered more than 200 signatures on the petition.

In discussing the motion to continue the hearing, Commissioner Jack Healey, explained that the commissioners had not had time to study the matter thoroughly. He explained that only opponents generally come to the hearings to make their pitch. Those in favor, he commented, never seem to show up.

He suggested that all those in attendance think seriously about the matter before the next hearing.

A muted response from the tired crowd indicated that they would do just that.

district will be $1,200,000. The land involved accounts for $900,000 of this total and improvements, $300,000. The district calls for 800 parking spaces.

Boundary lines for the district which extends roughly on both the north and south sides of Campbell Ave. from Winchester to Harrison have been modified to some extent to those first presented, the engineers explain.

Sunsweet, the school district and the American Auto Supply properties have been eliminated from the district. The district does not include the civic center complex of the city as parking facilities are already planned. The district line crosses the railroad on the south side of Campbell Ave. to take in the Southern Pacific property.

The engineers have estimated that it will cost each property owner involved about $3 per square foot to set up the district.

WHITE OAKS

Residents of the White Oaks section, although many do not reside within the city limits, are expected to attend the council meeting to urge the City Council to fight to keep White Oaks open when the freeway expansion takes place.

The state has suggested that because of the loop that is planned and the traffic congestion expected in the area because of signals and off-ramp White Oaks should not enter into Camden as it does now. At the hearing, however, the state officials agreed that the matter needed further study.

The City Council must execute a freeway agreement with the state when final plans are made. The residents of the area have indicated they want the council to defer action on any agreement until a better plan for White Oaks has been developed.

Campbell Swim Club scores upset victory

Campbell Swim Club, host to the recent Valley Swim Association "B" League swimming championships held at the Campbell High pool, scored a surprise victory over the field of six teams.

The meet was not decided until the final boys 15-17 relay event when Campbell won to nose out the Homestead Swim Team.

Campbell had a total score of 394 points, just 6 1/2 points ahead of Homestead with 387 1/2. Cupertino came in third with 293 1/2.

The meet was an unpredicted success for Coach Bill Augenstein's mermen as the Homestead team had previously beaten Campbell by 40 points in the early season dual meet. The dual meet victory in addition to an unblemished 5-0 dual meet record had established Homestead as the solid pre-meet favorite.

Campbell's surprise strength came in the relays where the locals picked up 22 points over Homestead to overcome the latter's 15 1/2 point lead at the end of the individual events. Campbell placed no worse than fourth in the relays, picking up valuable points in four relays where Homestead had no teams entered.

In addition to the top team effort, individual Campbell swimmers were outstanding as they picked up high point individual honors in five age groups and just missed in three others.

High Point Individual Trophy winners were: Mark Pearson, Boys 7-8; Lana Pearson girls 9-10; Paul Richardson, boys 9-10; Bonnie Atkinson, girls 11-12; and Bruce Struzan, boys 13-14. Mark Pearson and Paul Richardson turned in the outstanding performances for Campbell by winning three races each in addition to swimming on winning relays. Both swimmers were successful in the butterfly, backstroke, and breastroke events in their respective age groups.

A double winner for Campbell was Bonnie Atkinson, girls 11-12, who won in the freestyle, and butterfly events.

Thirty-four individual or relays records were broken in the 60 event program. Campbell swimmers accounted for 13 of the new records. The Campbell swimmers also broke 17 of their own club records.

Under the VSA rules, Campbell and Homestead as the top two teams in the "B" League will move up to the "A" League next year while the two cellar dwellars of the A League will come down to the "B" League.

Coach Augenstein was pleased with the surprising team effort of the Campbell team. He added he was grateful for the fine support given by the local merchants who sponsored the events and trophies.

Any local youngsters interested in joining the Campbell Swim Club are invited to contact Coach Augenstein at Campbell High School after Sept. 1[illegible].

How could a black man with a shiny new car and a fistful of credit cards fare traveling across white America. This was the question that Negro writer John A. Williams put to himself late in 1963 when the editor of a national magazine asked him to do a story of his impressions of America in this second half of the 20th century.

Williams visited hotels, motels, restaurants, army bases, newspaper offices, theaters, garages, in big towns and little towns. THIS IS MY COUNTRY TOO is a record of that journey and the reactions of a sensitive, sophisticated American who is a Negro.

MAN ON FIRE by LeGette Blythe

A novel of the life of St. Paul. Spanning the tumultuous years from the crucifixion of Christ to the martyrdom of St. Paul, Man on Fire brings to life the turbulent middle of the First Century, when Paul and other followers of Jesus spread their gentle though strong way of life through the Roman world.

Against the background of the struggle between pagan Rome and the embryonic Christian movement, Paul is portrayed as a many sided human man. From the time of his dramatic conversion, Paul, the moving force of early Christianity, molded as no other man could have, the foundations of the Christian Church.

XXXXX

THE VELVET BUBBLE by Alice Winter

This is a beautifully done portrait of a girl under a compulsion she does not understand and what she makes of her world.

After her mother's death, Dorrie Lawson feels sure she will be everything to her father in a way her mother had never been. But this is harder to achieve than she had expected. As in "The Bad Seed", Dorrie's story has pity and horror--and almost unbearable suspense. It is a remarkable piece of work that introduces a new American novelist of startling talent.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT V. CANCELLIERI
(SHIRLEY ANN DILONARDI)

Dinner dance is highlight of Cancellieri-DiLonardo wedding

A beautiful formal wedding ceremony at St. Lucy's Catholic Church united Miss Shirley Ann Di Lonardo of Campbell and Robert Victor Cancellieri of Saratoga in marriage recently. The late afternoon nuptials were witnessed by over 250 friends and relatives.

The petite brunette bride was lovely in her silk peau de soie gown designed with the Empire silhouette and portrait neckline. Her pillbox headpiece secured an elbow length veil and she carried a crescent shaped bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Paul Rossetti of Saratoga, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She was attired in a moss green sheath featuring an over jacket with three quarter length sleeves. She carried a cluster of green cymbidium orchids surrounded by carnations and foliage. Charles Bobinez of Campbell served as best man and John Bisceglie of Campbell ushered.

Opera starlet Clorinda Di Lonardo Campagna, sister of the bride, was the vocalist.

A dinner dance and reception at the Hawaiian Gardens followed the wedding service. Champagne toasts were given to the bride and groom and a unique feature of the evening was the Hawaiian entertainment presented by the Sheryn Martin Aloha Nani Dancers, including the traditional wedding dances presenting the newlyweds with leis of flowers. The couple cut a four tiered wedding cake and passed out boxes of confetti with their names enscribed on them to the guests.

Following a wedding trip to Southern California the couple are now at home on Cox Ave. in Saratoga.

The new Mrs. Cancellieri is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Di Lonardo of Campbell. She is a graduate of Campbell High School, San Jose State College and is employed as a sixth grade teacher at Linda Vista School in the Alum Rock District. Mrs. Assunta Cancellieri of Watsonville is the mother of the bridegroom. He is a graduate of Watsonville schools and Hartnell Junior College and operates the Saratoga Bakery in Saratoga.

School cafeteria lunches are a good buy for 35¢

What Campbell Union School District children will be offered in cafeteria lunch menus for the first six weeks of school is being planned right now by Mrs. Pearl Calabrese, food services supervisor, and her staff.

School begins Monday, September 13.

Parents--always welcome to eat lunch and observe the school lunch service, are especially invited during School Lunch Week, Oct 10-16. They always pay the adult charge of 50¢ and eat the same food served students for 35¢.

Increase of the charge for lunches from 25¢ to 35¢ in the fall of 1961 made it possible to put the entire food services program on a self-supporting basis Salaries formerly subsidized by the general administration budget were transferred to the separated food services budget and paid out of income received.

Other substantial savings have been made by Mrs. Calabrese and her staff, by using large quantities of surplus commodities, keeping menus identical for all 19 schools in Campbell District, using adequate warehousing facilities to store foods purchased in season and at distress sales at lowest possible prices; and minimum amounts of convenience foods.

Last year surplus commodities received by Campbell District at no cost included such foods as ground beef; roast beef; butter; Cheddar cheese; dried milk; 285 cases of turkey, 55 cases of apricots, 106 cases of fresh pears, 158 cases of prunes--and much more--a total of 38 different foods in large quantity lots.

These quantities can be stored for use as needed because the warehouse facility has been tripled in capacity. It was doubled three years ago, and one year ago was brought to its present size: 150' x 40' or 6000 square feet. The enlargements were built by the school district maintenance staff.

Non-perishable foods can be bought on the regular market at the height of the season when cost is lowest, and stored for use throughout the school year.

The use of convenience foods is strictly limited, and most baking is done in the old-fashioned way from "scratch." A cost analysis is made whenever a convenience food is tried. Mrs. Calabrese says, "Unless we learn we are still spending the food dollar in the most prudent manner, we stop using that particular item."

These savings to the taxpayer and the overall administration of the food services program have brought Mrs. Calabrese repeated praise from the board of trustees. She herself says, however, "The success of the program is due to the dedication and loyalty and hard work of the cook-managers and their helpers in the kitchen, the food service office and warehouses staff. Otherwise, the program couldn't be successful."

In 1964-65, 4,079 children were fed on an average day in Campbell District cafeterias, while the average daily attendance in school was 10,623. For 1965-66 ADA is projected as 11,100, with about 4500 expected to eat school lunches on an average day. Adults generally avoid the lunches; they are so nutritious they bring weight problems to sedentary people, while children burn up the energy.

Campbell prepares for County Fair, Sept. 13-19

Junior Division will have more than its share of entries in the 21st annual Santa Clara County Fair, Sept. 13-19. Early figures show a total of over 2,000 youngsters have entered 3,000 exhibits.

Of these, 500 exhibitors have 900 entries in Junior Livestock. The Future Farmers and 4-H youngsters will be competing for $10,000 in premium prizes. The livestock auction begins at 9 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 18. Professional buyers from all areas will be bidding for animals winning either first or second place in competition. Sears and Roebuck will present a preview showing of the livestock entries at the store Thursday thru Saturday, Aug. 19, 20 and 21.

A talent contest will be held at the Fair Sept. 13-19 on the main grandstand stage.

Floriculture is a million dollar business in Santa Clara County, according to Mrs. Eleanor Vennum, floriculture superintendent at the Santa Clara County Fair. She expects over 2,500 fresh flowers to be on display during the Fair. County residents will be competing for over $6,000 in premiums. Areas of competition are: Children's garden dishes, cut flowers, feature displays, potted plants, roses and arrangements. Judging will take place Sunday, Sept. 12, at 6 p.m.

Closing time for entries this year is 6 p.m. on Wed., Sept. 8. Entry forms are available at the Fairgrounds, 344 Tully Rd. or phone 295-3050.

More than 600 art entries have been submitted to the 21st County Fair Art Exhibit. Area artists will be competing for a total of $340 in premium prizes. Prizes will be offered to first, second, third and special mention winners. Jury of Selection will choose the entries for exhibit on Sept. 8. Gene de Coux is director of the Art Committee.

Comedy opens in Saratoga

The Dramatic Arts Company, sponsor of the current Saratoga Drama Festival, is now well into the final phases of production for its second play of the three show summer season, Arthur L. Kopit's hilarious comedy, "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You In the Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad." It is a parody on Tennessee Williams' Ionesco, and all the "avant-garde" writers in its biting attacks on the devouring female.

Actors in the cast are Jan Ross, Dina Ferentinos, Stanley A. Anderson, Jr., David Kahn, Henry Webb, Tracy Thornall, Robert Ryan and Russell Holcomb. The play runs August 19 through August 22, at the new Saratoga Civic Theater, 13777 Fruitvale Ave., Saratoga.

College board adopts policy on guest speakers on campus

"Free discussion of controversial issues is basic to the process involved in our way of living and governing."

Such is the nearest thing to a one-sentence philosophy of a newly-adopted Policy on guest speakers by the trustees of West Valley College.

"Guest speakers shall be welcome to speak on issues of political, economic, or social significance for which universally accepted answers have not been determined," the policy states. "Naturally, differing points of view should be presented so that no single point of view is allowed to predominate."

The policy calls for creation of a special events commission of students, faculty and administration to plan special events, submit budget proposals for such events and approve or disapprove requests of various organizations for speakers. Machinery for appeals from commission rulings--to the administration and ultimately to the governing board--is provided.

The board policy requires that the college administration see to it that each guest speaker understands:

That his background shall be made known to the audience as accurately as possible.

That his remarks must pertain to the subject and content previously assigned.

That he shall answer questions related to his address.

That his remarks shall be subject to critical analysis to any degree desired in West Valley College classes.

Criteria to be followed in selecting issues for study and, consequently, persons to speak on those issues will be:

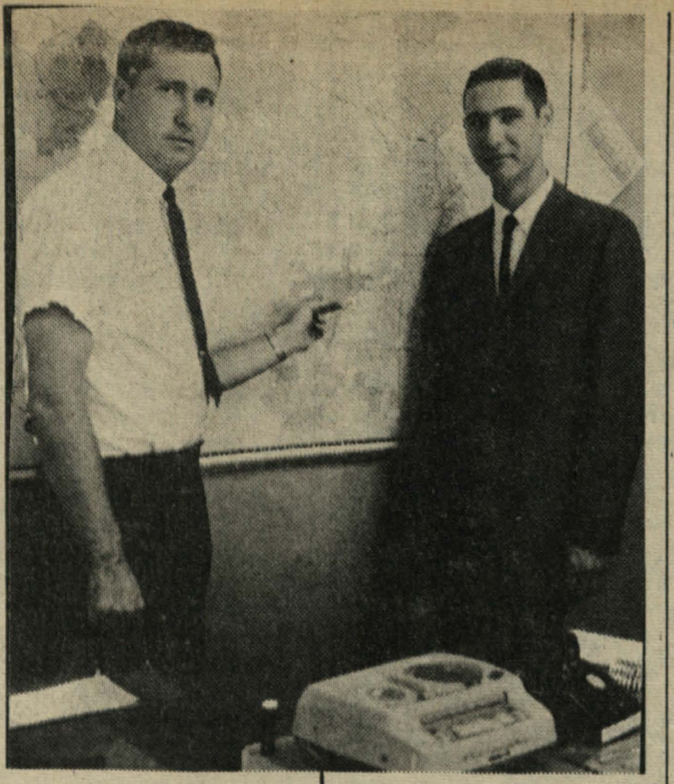
The issue should contribute to the general educational program of the college.

It should be of sufficient interest to encourage participation by the students.

It should provide opportunity for critical thinking, tolerance, and understanding of conflicting points of view.

It should be one about which sufficient information is available to all for discussion and evaluation on a factual and reasonable basis.

It should not violate reasonable standards of decency and morals.



NEW POLICE OFFICER--Police Chief John Morgan (left) points out to Don Stefani, 25, newly appointed to the police force, some of the spots the new officer will be covering as a member of the department. The new officer, who was born in Cleveland, Ohio, resides with his wife and one-year old son at 2265 Middletown Drive. Stefani, who has served in the army, attended Kent State University and Bowling Green University in Ohio. He will start on September 1. Stefani replaces Officer Del Perry who was promoted to sergeant upon the resignation of Sgt. Dean Godbehere who has accepted a position with the State of Washington welfare detail.

U.S. AIR FORCE

ATTRACTS YOUNGSTERS--One of the most popular attractions at the Campbell Park is the U. S. Air Force plane that was donated to the city. Park officials report, however, that considerable time is spent each week repairing the malicious damage that is done to the plane.

Favorite recipes from our Campbell readers

Sausage and apples

1 lb. sausage meat
2 tbsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
2 lbs. tart apples
1/4 tsp. cinnamon

Pan-broil sausage as usual in little cakes. Then remove from the pan to the upper part of a double boiler. Cover closely and keep water in lower part simmer-gently.

If fat in pan is more than 1/4 inch deep, pour off and save for drippings. Quarter and core unpeeled tart apples. Lay apples in the sausage pan, sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon, and salt; add 1 Tbsp. water. Stir the apples carefully, scraping up any brown crumbs from the pan, then blend the fat and the seasonings with the fruit. Cover closely and steam over a low fire until apples are tender, adding a little more water if necessary. This will usually be about 1/2 hour. Stir occasionally. Serve on a hot plate with the sausage - which will delight you after its extra cooking.

CHICKEN AND NOODLE CASSEROLE

1 8 oz. pkg. noodles
2 cups cooked chicken, cut in neat pieces
1 pkg. frozen green peas
1 can mushroom soup
2/3 cup milk
1/2 cup buttered crumbs
1/8 tsp. paprika

Cook noodles, drain and rinse. Grease casserole. Arrange noodles, chicken, and uncooked peas in alternate layers. Combine soup and milk, pour over mixture. Top with buttered crumbs and paprika. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 minutes. 4 to 6 servings. Delicious.

West Valley College crosses first accreditation hurdle

West Valley College has been approved as a candidate for accreditation, according to a report by the Accrediting Commission for Junior Colleges of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

In addition the Commission "strongly recommends that the college request a full-scale initial accreditation visit sometime during the 1965-66 college year, according to a letter from its secretary, Henry T. Tyler, to Dr. Wallace W. Hall, West Valley College president. Normally, an institution requests renewal of its candidacy--but not the full-scale accreditation visit--during the second year of operation.

Following are highlights from the report of the Commission's preliminary accreditation visit made on May 19:

Physical Facilities--Considerable originality and resourcefulness were displayed in adapting these facilities (The old Campbell Elementary School buildings) for use.

Instructional Program--It is the belief of the inspection team that West Valley College has employed an excellent staff and that the students are getting good instruction." "Area-wide curriculum planning through cooperative vocational studies in the County and involving neighboring junior colleges has been conducted and is to be commended."

Library Facilities--"Space is very limited and inadequate for a college of this size.".. "The book collection, being new, is up to date and contains approximately 8,500 volumes."

Finances--"Good use has been made of federal funds.

Campbell Adult School will open to the west side public for the fall semester with 170 classes beginning September 13, 14, 15 and 16.

Pre-registration for the high school or elementary diploma, vocational and general education classes will take place at the Campbell Adult School office, 1945 Winchester Blvd., Campbell, during this period. Counselors will be on hand to work with all persons desiring a high school diploma as well as persons seeking vocational training.

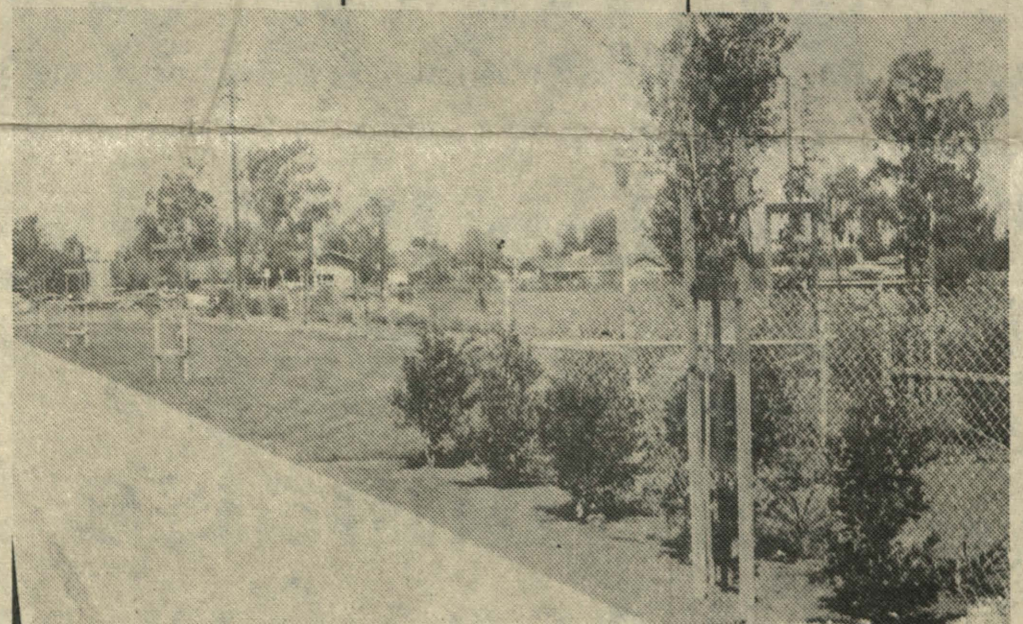
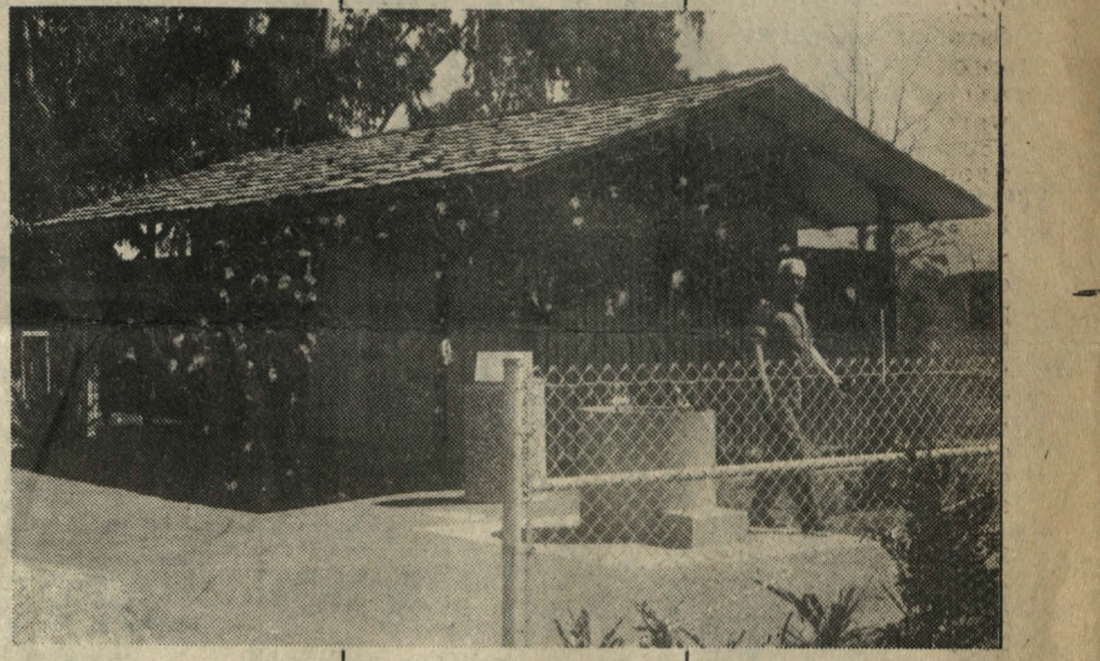
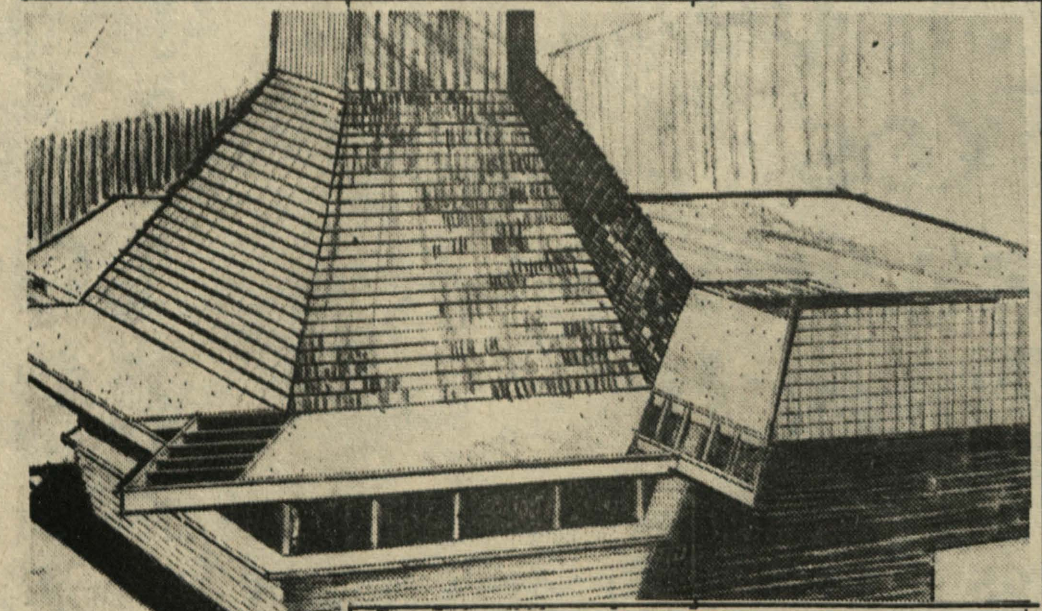
NEW ADDITIONS--Herman Rice of the city park staff stands by one of the new exposed aggregate trash cans recently placed in Campbell Park. A picnic table and one of the new barbecue stands are also shown.



RUSTIC RESTROOMS--A shake-roof and rustic exterior give an attractive appearance to the restrooms located at Campbell Park.



GREEN LAWNS--Lawns and shrubbery were recently planted at the entrance to Campbell Park.



VASONA PARK FOOD CONCESSION BUILDING--A deep-felt need will be satisfied when this attractive little building is completed next summer at Vasona Lake County Park. Known as the Food Concession Building, the 800 square-foot, redwood, concrete block, and cedar shake structure designed by County architect Tevis Dooley, Jr. will provide food and soft drinks, presently unavailable to recreation-seekers at the park. Construction will start in the fall.

The contradictions and about-faces of those who support the Supreme Court reapportionment decision are amazing.

On October 29, 1948, just before the "one man -- one vote" reapportionment issue was defeated on one of three times in a California election, the Governor of California said:

". . . . I have never been in favor of restricting the representation in the senate to a strictly population basis.

"It is the reason that the Founding Fathers of our country gave balanced representation to the states of the Union --equal representation in one House and proportionate representation based on population in the other.

"Moves have been made to upset the balanced representation in our State, even though it served us well and is strictly in accord with American tradition and the pattern or our National Government.

". . . Any weakening of the laws would invite a return to boss rule which we are now happily rid of."

The Governor of California who made that statement is the present Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, The Honorable Earl Warren.

A change of heart like that of Chief Justice Warren over a period of sixteen years may be justified because of the passage of time. But the current crop of ultra liberals who see the Supreme Court decision as a means to achieve more centralized "welfare state" type government, contradict themselves on almost a daily basis instead of over a sixteen year period.

They cling to the Constitution as the guarantor of equal rights. But in the same breath they argue that the system of checks and balances which is provided in the Constitution for the Senate and House is not proper for the states.

In their anxiety to legislate a welfare state with no opposition whatsoever, they even ignore the democratic principle of "one man--one vote" which they claim to revere.

The recently defeated proposal by Senator Dirksen to allow one House of a state legislature to be apportioned on a basis other than population required that any apportionment be submitted to the people for a vote every ten years. It provided further that any proposal to reapportion a state legislature must be accompanied on a state ballot by an alternative proposal which embodied the "one man--one vote" principle. The Dirksen proposal clearly gave to the entire electorate the right to choose what the majority wanted.

But the ultra liberals were not content to entrust their case to the people who would vote on the "one man--one vote" principle. They profess to believe in democracy but are afraid to trust it.

It is about time somebody bluntly spoke the truth. --There are forces at work in this country which believe in the Constitution only when it serves their purpose. Their aim is a centralized welfare state and they won't let inconsistency and contradiction deter them from getting it!

Lighted flares thrown at autos

Campbell Police are questioning suspects about several vehicle fires which occured in this area on August 15. A 1952 Willys pick up truck, owned by Neil Gordon, was totally involved and received extensive damage, when a lighted flare was thrown into the parked vehicle at 910 Linda Ave.

Another auto, owned by H. L. Collier, 566 Virginia Ave., was also damaged by a lighted fuse. In both cases, the owners were asleep when the fires occured.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions and Answers

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE
SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

by
Gladstone A. Boquist

Q. A friend tells me that since I'm over 65, I might qualify for some social security benefits, even though I am still working full-time and earning about $1800 a year. Is he right?

A. He may very well be right. The exact answer would depend on your current earnings and on the amount of your monthly benefits, as determined on the basis of your average earnings as shown in your social security account. You should get in touch with our office immediately. We will be glad to tell you how the law applies in your particular case.

Q. My employer insists that I apply for a new social security account number card. I lost my original card, but my number is on my old tax returns. I gave him this number, but he says I must get a new card. Is this really necessary?

A. Your employer is right. The number on your tax returns is probably correct, but a mistake could have been made when you copied it. The only way your employer could be sure he has the correct number would be to take it directly from your social security card. You can get an application for a duplicate card at your Social Security Office. The records will be checked, and you will receive a new card with your original number on it.

Q. I have two social security account numbers. Should I do anything about this?

A. Yes. Ask the Social Security Administration to combine the two accounts and also to furnish you a statement of the combined accounts.

Grass Roots

It's not too early for bulbs

Most of the popular garden varieties of bulbs go dormant in the summer, giving the grower and the gardener an opportunity to get them out of the ground and plant them before they start growing again. Some of these bulbs have a short period of dormancy--action must be taken before the customary fall planting season, according to the California Association of Nurserymen.

Most prominent among these are the Bearded Iris, whose bulbs are more properly called rhizomes. It is among the showiest of the large tribe of iris, available in a wide range of colors, cherished as both a garden and cut flower. The "Beard" is the streak of gold found on the lower lip of each flower.

Colchicum (kohl-chick-um) sometimes called "summer crocus" because of the shape of its flower, has lavender-blue blooms arising well before the foliage. It actually does not have to be planted to bloom, but it needs soil to carry on its natural activities when the foliage appears.

Lycoris (li'cor'-iss) or spider-lily, is an amaryllis-like bulb that produces its foliage before the summer flowers, then becomes dormant in a hurry! Colors available are red, yellow and pink. Remember to set the bulbs in the soil so the neck is left exposed.

White callas are available now--but only the white callas producing the large white flowers. The smaller white one with the spotted foliage doesn't become dormant until November.

Zephyranthes (zehpyr-lily) is miniature amaryllis blooming in spring and summer. Colors available are white, rose-pink and yellow. Visitors to Hawaii find them everywhere and some think they are natives. The white one is from Argentina, blooms in spring. The rose-pink variety is from tropical America and yellow from British Guiana. Both flower in summer. Set them high, just like amaryllis.

CHANGE THE SCENERY WITH CONTAINER PLANTS

If you look on your container plants as beautiful, portable props, your garden can never be dull. No matter what the season, there are always colorful plants in bloom, and movable pots, boxes and tubs give you the opportunity of featuring them in prominent spots.

Right now, for instance, you can bring in brilliant hibiscus shrubs in pink, yellow, red or white for sensational bloom throughout the rest of the summer. Members of the California Association of Nurserymen recommend growing hibiscus in containers because this way you can insure the perfect drainage this shrub requires. Also, container planting gives you the advantage of being able to move the less hardy varieties to a very sheltered spot in winter. When growing hibiscus in tubs, use a mixture or equal parts of loam, sand, and either peat moss or ground bark, and feed them as often as twice a month.

Marguerites, felicia, and geraniums are all unfailing sources of color for the California gardener, and since they all bloom more profusely in pots than in the ground, they're ideal for containers. Fuchsias are vivid subjects for filtered shade, either in hanging baskets or in pots; hydrangeas make bold masses of summer color; cushion chrysanthemums are ideal for bright masses of color in containers now, and they can be replaced by the larger 'mums for a blazing show in the fall. These are only a few of the plants ready to bring dramatic color changes where you want them now. You'll get dozens of other ideas when you browse your C.A.N. nursery with container planting in mind.

Evergreens are the backbone of your container plant collection, just as they are of your garden in the ground. Once you start using junipers, Mugho Pines, bamboos, camellias, strawberry trees or dozens of other fine shrubs in portable containers, you'll find many new possibilities for changing the scenery as you wish. Four or five junipers, for instance, in matching modular boxes can form a mass of strong, bright green to add substance to a deck or patio. Then another time, the same junipers can be used spaced out to define a boundary at a patio or pool, or lined up to guide guests along an entry walk.

College sets up advisory groups

The West Valley College Board of Trustees has given the green light to five vocational programs and has appointed advisory committees of leaders in each of the respective fields.

Committees to aid the college administration, particularly in programs of instruction, have been appointed for electronics, medical assisting, secretarial, data processing and technical drafting, according to Albert J. Riendeau, Dean of vocational-technical education.

"To be most effective, our occupation-centered curricula should be set up and maintained with the advice and cooperation of employers and employees in the fields concerned," Riendeau said. "Invariably the response by persons whom we have asked to help in setting up these curricula has been both positive and immediate."

The two year career programs at West Valley College are being set up only after careful evaluation and consultation with county wide business, labor, government and education leaders, and by planning with other junior colleges to avoid unnecessary duplication.

United Fund sets $34.222 goal for Campbell in 1965 campaign

Campbell United Fund Campaign Chairman, Ledger A. Myers, administrative assistant for IBM's Supplies Division, announces that the Campbell community will strive to raise $34,222 in this year's United Fund campaign.

Establishment of the local goal came at last week's meeting of the Central Area United Fund Chapter's campaign cabinet, where Halsey C. Burke, campaign chairman of the Central Area Chapter and president of Burke Rubber Co., explained that Campbell's goal is a part of the larger Central Area chapter goal of $1,238,774. Chapter divisions and other communities are all a party of the chapter goal. Quotas for the other communities include: Cambrian Park --$3,722; Santa Clara --$131,812; Saratoga--$20,217; Cupertino--$24,526; Milpitas--$52,448 and Los Gatos --$22,980.

In making known the local United Fund goal, Myers reviewed Campbell's United Fund drive in 1964, noting that the city reached 103% of its quota. The "victorious" drive was led by O. S. Sorenson, manager of the Hamilton Plaza Bank of America.

"This year's United Fund is especially significant because it represents the first time in UF history that the county-wide goal has been set above the $2 million mark," Myers, explains. "And I urge the citizens of Campbell to continue their good support and to work together to boost us over our goal again this year," Myers concludes.

The 1965 United Fund county drive will be made on behalf of the 66 UF agencies which offer disaster service, counseling to emotionally disturbed children, adoption service, legal aid, home nursing care, marital counseling and emergency welfare assistance.
